DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Faulk (USP 5,818,705) in view Lee (USP 6,198,638). Faulk discloses the claimed invention see figures 1a, 1b, 2, 3, 5, an AC adapter with emi filter, 37 and 69, and full bridge rectifier, U1 and U2, with voltage converting circuit, except having a separate module for the emi filter and full bridge rectifier circuit and a voltage regulating circuit. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have a separate module for the emi filter and full bridge rectifier circuit, since it has been held that constructing a formerly integral structure in various elements involves only routine skill in the art. Nerwin v. Erlichman, 168 USPQ 177, 179. The modular aspect makes for an interchangeable parts aspect advantage that is well known in the art.

Lee discloses a voltage regulating circuit, a single ended flyback type switching power supply (see figure 4) that maintains the DC voltage from the converting circuit. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to provide a single ended flyback type switching power supply (see figure 4) that maintains the DC voltage from the converting circuit of Lee with the AC adapter device of with EMI filter contained in a single module of Faulk, in order to provide a stabilized and regulated voltage at the output of the circuit

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 6-21-06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Given the teachings of Faulk one of ordinary skill in the art would arrive at applicant's claimed invention. Faulk does discloses a regulating circuit, however, it was a passive circuit, thus a combination of Faulk with Lee who shows an active (switches) regulation circuit, which clearly shows applicant's claimed invention.
4. In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
